ACE C&A Awards Class 15 Exhibits – UGA Sunbelt Ag Expo 2016

The Life of an Ag Dawg:
Visitors are greeted by student ambassadors and given game tokens to play. They are guided along the game by towers and paw prints.

The Life of an Ag Dawg:
Student ambassadors ask questions about experiential learning and student life. Patrons keep their tokens if they give a correct answer.

The Life of an Ag Dawg:
Custom towers and game podiums were built to add height to the space, yet are transportable and reusable for other events on campus. They have a wooden and metal frame with a coroplast graphic.

The Life of an Ag Dawg:
Stations without a person had a question with four possible answers. Wrong answers had a slot to submit a game token. Patrons with a token or more at the end received a prize.

CAES Game Wheel:

A giant game wheel was built by one of the college's engineers in Tifton. It featured sections for each department of the college. Student ambassadors asked questions to visitors to show the diversity of the college.

Infographic Signs:

As visitors walked around the building, they were guided by oversized infographics (4' square) touting top reasons it's great to be an Ag Dawg.

Extension Jeopardy:

Extension agents from the local area used an interactive "Jeopardy" game via PowerPoint and digital TV display to educate visitors about topics and programs that the organization offers.
